Text:

A balanced meal is a meal which brings to our organism everything it needs to function. Eat balanced; eat a little bit of everything but in a reasonable way because if we eat a lot of some foods, it can be dangerous for our health.

Food is split into five food groups. Each group has an interest and different characteristics that make essential for the functioning of our body. To eat a balanced diet, just eat a food from each group. Grain group contains bread, rice and pasta; It is a source of energy. Vegetables and fruit group contains carrots, lettuce, oranges, and grapes.....ect. This group is rich of vitamins and minerals. It prevents illnesses.

Meat group contains meat, fish and eggs and milk group contains dairy products such as milk, cheese and yogurt. These two groups provide proteins and vitamins. They build body tissues. Fat, oil and sweet group contains butter, sweeties, soda, biscuits and chocolateect. This group provides vitamins A and B, but we should eat in small amounts not to have health problems like obesity.
