Manners are behaviours used every day to make a good impression on others and to feel good about oneself. No matter where you are - Whether you are eating at a fancy restaurant, in the cafeteria, or at home with friends and families, good table manners make for a more pleasant meal . While you may not need to worry about confusing your salad fork with your desert fork when dining with friends, some basic table manners should never be forgotten. Here are some easy-to-follow Do's and Don'ts :

On one hand , you should sit properly (and straight ) in your chair and talk to people about pleasant things instead of nonsense. Keep in mind that placing your napkin on your lap may be useful very frequently at any dinner table . Don't forget to wait until everyone is seated before starting to eat and asking someone to pass the food you need, rather than reach across the table. It is regarded very inconsiderate. You should chew with your mouth closed . you should say "excuse me" or "I'm sorry" if you burp . It is advisable to say "no thank you" if you don't want a certain dish or are full .

On the other hand, you should not overload your fork or plate. It is unacceptable to chew with your mouth open, it is considered impolite. It is not recommended well-mannered to push your plate away when you finish eating lean on the table .
